Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see paper no. 8, filed October 10th, 2002, with respect to the final action have been fully considered and are persuasive.
2. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.
3. Therefore, applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-20 of paper no. 6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

5. Claims 1-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Martin, Jr. et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,304,860).

• Art Unit: 3621

6. As per claims 1, 11, 17, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches an apparatus (fund allocation methodology) for real state escrow transactions (real estate transaction), comprising a computer based automation system (networks, fig 2), having components providing implementation, management, and tracking of escrow transactions, wherein data for implementing, managing, and tracking the escrow transactions is accessible for specific parties to the escrow transactions (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

7. As per claims 2, 12, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches an apparatus which includes program modules distributed between principals and parties to the escrow transactions, providing predetermined party associated data entry and access (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

8. As per claims 3, 13, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a program modules including security measures providing for a variety of levels for the associated data entry and access to the escrow transactions (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

9. As per claims 4, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a client-server computer system for escrow of property comprising: at least one client module associated with at least one client party for initiating an escrow process with at least one escrow party, and at least one server module associate with the escrow party, wherein a specific escrow account between the client party and the escrow party is established, maintained, tracked, and consummated via the client-server computer system (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

10. As per claims 5, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a system comprising on-line entry and transmission of escrow initiation, escrow instructions, escrow status tracking, and escrow consummation between the server party and the client party (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

11. As per claims 6, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a system wherein at least one server module associated with the escrow party further comprising: on-line entry and transmission of service provider data between the server party and at least one service provider (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

12. As per claims 7-10 Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a system comprising computer code providing data security and digital identity authentication for each party, digital tracking for tracking required documentation and transfer of funds or other compensation transfers throughout the escrow process and final closing of the escrow process (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

13. As per claims 14, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a process for a computerized escrow transaction comprising: providing escrow account, escrow status, broker status, lender status, buyer status, seller status, and vendor status via a centralized server associated with an escrow officer; and connecting parties to the computerized escrow transaction using multiple computer network access devices via connectivity types which include but are not limited to wireless, satellite, dial-up, or leased communications (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

14. As per claims 15, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a system for real-time or near-real-time escrow transactions, comprising: an appropriate data, application, and transactional management network programs and supporting network based applications for performing at least one of the escrow services selected from a group including receiving and storing escrow instructions upon submission by a party to the escrow transaction via a computerized communications device, disseminating instructions to all relevant parties by computer; providing escrow documentation, providing escrow documentation approvals; automating order specified services real-time and near-real-time display of escrow instructions, status, and activity, on-line digital identification authentication; transfer of ownership, closing escrow, releasing of escrow funds; and digital transfer of escrow funds (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

15. As per claims 16, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a method of doing business using an internet comprising: providing an on-line escrow account for parties to a transaction; providing on-line transactional account management services with respect to the on-line escrow account for the parties; and providing secure access to the on-line escrow account limited to the parties and third parties using on-line identification authentication (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

16. As per claims 18, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a memory wherein the program code allowing escrow transaction data access only for specific parties to the escrow transaction further comprises: program code for identification authentication (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

17. As per claims 19, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a memory wherein the program code providing implementation, management, tracking, and closing of specific escrow transactions further comprises: program code for digital signatures (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).

18. As per claims 20, Martin, Jr. et al. teaches a memory comprising: program code for a method of doing business using an internet, the code including computerized processes for providing an on-line escrow account for parties to a transaction, providing on-line transactional account management services with respect to the on-line escrow account for the parties, and providing secure access to the on-line escrow account limited to the parties and third parties using on-line identification authentication (see abstract, fig 2, 3, column 4 line 44-59, 5 line 36-61, 10 line 22-56, table 1, column 13 and 14).
